Farm Bloc Scents Victory In Coming Senate Ballot

Water Aplenty, But Demand Rises Steadily

Ervin Leist, manager of the city Water and Sewage Department gave renewed assurance Friday that the community has plenty of water when residents want to use it.

But he also released figures that show the increasing demands under the scorching pressure of the drought's steady sun. The daily average of water consumption recently in Circleville, Leist disclosed, has been running a little more than 10,000 gallons ahead of last year.

The daily average for July of 1953 was 809,000 gallons, while the daily average for the same month this year was measured at 820,000 gallons.

Daily average figured over all of last year was 667,000 gallons.

AVERAGES compared over the first seven months of the year show to an even greater extent the heavy demands being made on the city's water.

So far this year, Circleville has been using on an average of 676,000 gallons a day. And that is far ahead of the daily average computed for the first seven months of 1953—619,000 gallons.

August is normally the peak month for water consumption, Leist said.

Last month, the July peak was reached on the 14th day when Circleville used 1,079,000 gallons under sweltering temperatures. The minimum for the month was 624,000 gallons pumped on the 18th—a Sunday, almost always a day of low demand.

Liquor Agent Gets Suspension

COLUMBUS (AP)—A 30-day suspension for disciplinary purposes starts today for state liquor enforcement agent Stanley J. Dehart of Cleveland.

The state liquor department announced the suspension yesterday. The 38-year-old Dehart, assigned to the Cincinnati area, figures in the current half-million dollar shake-down investigation now being conducted by the department. Reason for the suspension was not disclosed.

Dehart was one of three liquor inspectors found innocent last year of soliciting and accepting a bribe from a Columbus tavern owner.

A government panel two months ago recommended a 6-cent hourly pay increase, but both the CIO union and the AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council—representing another 4,500 workers in other Oak Ridge atomic plants—rejected the proposal, asking for a 15-cent raise. However, the AFL workers did not strike.

Present pay rates range from $1.58 to $2.40 an hour.

Rotary On Record Backing Bond Issue For Schools

Circleville Rotary Club is officially on record in favor of the $750,000 bond issue proposed by the city board of education to keep the community's schools abreast of rising needs.

Officials of the club announced the action late Thursday after Superintendent of Schools George Hartman had addressed the Rotarians at their weekly meeting. Hartman described the urgent need of a school building program for Circleville, and explained how it can be launched if the voters approve the bond issue next November.

Hartman emphasized the city has been fortunate through recent years in being able to make emergency arrangements to meet the increased enrollments. But he warned that needs have caught up with present facilities, and that the next five years will bring new, heavy demands.

Official support voted by Rotary appeared to have special significance, inasmuch as the school board announced plans for the bond issue only recently. And Hartman's address at the Thursday meeting was the first time the proposal was detailed to a local civic group.

HARTMAN expressed keen enthusiasm over Rotary's action. "We certainly appreciate it," he said.

The motion to put the big service organization on record in support of the bond issue was made by Dr. G. D. Phillips and seconded by Charles Walters. Vice-president Ervin Leist presided over the meeting in the vacation absence of Ed Grigg, Rotary president.

Endorsement of the school board's proposal was voted unanimously.

Leist said Hartman "gave us an excellent presentation" of the hopes that rest in the bond issue. Leist said the Rotarians were impressed by the caliber of advance planning done by the school board, and by the well-calculated program drawn up for future development of the overloaded school system.

The Rotary vice-president mentioned in particular the plans to add classrooms or build new schools as near as possible to the home of the pupils. In too many other communities, Leist pointed out, the short-sighted policy is "to build the schools and then figure out how to get the children to them."

Burke, Rhodes Booked In Ada

ADA (AP)—Sen. Thomas A. Burke (D-Ohio) and State Auditor James A. Rhodes will address the 41st farmers and merchants picnic at Ada Memorial Park Aug. 18.

Burke opposes Rep. George Bender (R-Ohio) in this year's senatorial race. Rhodes is the Republican candidate running against Frank J. Lausche, the Democratic incumbent, for governor.

Court Ban On A-Strike Being Studied

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House today was reported considering applying for an 80-day court injunction under the Taft-Hartley Law to ban a threatened new strike of key atomic workers.

Should they so decide, federal attorneys could seek the court order almost at once because they cleared legal preliminaries for the same case last month.

Government efforts to spur a wage settlement in the four-month-old dispute involving CIO workers at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Paducah, Ky., collapsed last night.

Elwood Swisher, president of the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers, whose 4,500 members at Oak Ridge and Paducah struck four days last July 7-10 in the same dispute, said the union has set a new strike date, but declined to name the day.

A government panel two months ago recommended a 6-cent hourly pay increase, but both the CIO union and the AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council—representing another 4,500 workers in other Oak Ridge atomic plants—rejected the proposal, asking for a 15-cent raise. However, the AFL workers did not strike.

McCarthy Probers To Avoid 'Vaudeville Show' Hearing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators picked to investigate the conduct of Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) indicated today a belief their hearings should be open to the public, but with some restraints to avoid a "vaudeville show" atmosphere.

In advance of a planned second meeting to discuss plans, most of the six members of the special committee said they did not want a repetition of the televised McCarthy-Army hearings.

The subcommittee which conducted those 36 days of stormy sessions planned a meeting of its own today to seek agreement on machinery for writing a report.

And McCarthy himself went ahead with his own investigation of what he terms widespread Communist infiltration of defense plants. McCarthy reserved comment on the committee's membership, and on the prompt turnaround given his request yesterday for a closed-door talk about the group's plans for investigating him.

THE SIX SENATORS drafted to make the new study of McCarthy's behavior, including his controversial Red-hunting methods, were named yesterday by Vice President Nixon. Members had been recommended by the Republican and Democratic Policy Committees of the Senate.

The special committee was created Monday night by a Senate resolution instructing it "to act and to make a report" on a move to censure McCarthy made by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) and on 46 accusations, some of them overlapping, aimed at the Wisconsin senator by Flanders and Sens. Fulbright (D-Ark) and Morse (Ind-Ore).

The investigations committee is made up of Sens. Watkins (Utah), Case (SD) and Carlson (Kan.), all Republicans, and Edwin C. Johnson (Colo.), Stennis (Miss) and Ervin (NC), Democrats.

Johnson is the group's senior member, and there has been some talk that he may be invited to sit as its chairman, although Watkins, the senior GOP member, acted as spokesman after a preliminary session yesterday.

Watkins declared he and his fellow members are determined that the investigation will be "in the nature of a judicial inquiry" by legislators who have not prejudged the issues.

Lone Cop Grabs London Escapee

MECHANICSBURG (AP)—Carl Castle, 19, who escaped Wednesday from the Madison County jail after overpowering an elderly guard, was captured here today by Mechanicsburg Police Chief Bill Flora.

Castle is wanted in Florida and Ohio for armed robbery, burglary and breaking and entering.

Chief Flora captured Castle at the south end of town and took him to the town jail. Sheriff Harold Bidwell of Madison County is to return him to London.

All central Ohio law enforcement officers had been on the alert in an attempt to capture the man. They learned he had been in Columbus yesterday visiting at a sister's home, but authorities said he somehow managed to get through roadblocks set up for his capture.

July Employment Holds 'Stable'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that employment conditions remained stable in July without an usual seasonal rise in unemployment.

A joint statement by the Commerce and Labor Departments said July's civilian employment was 62,148,000, an increase of 50,000 from June but 972,000 less than in July a year ago.

Unemployment was virtually unchanged in July at 3,346,000 or 1,000 less than the 3,347,000 counted in June. This change is so small it is considered within the margin of statistical error.

Anti-Ike Plan Force Claiming New Support

GOP Leader Hoping For Tell-Tale Vote On Program Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Young (R-ND), reversing his prediction that a Senate group fighting for continued high farm price supports might suffer defeat, said today "I think we're going to win now; there have been some switches."

With six or eight votes apparently controlling the Senate fate of the Eisenhower administration's plan for flexible price supports, Sen. Holland (D-Fla) questioned Young's claim.

He noted that even a Senate vote for rigid props would not be final. Holland, who supports the administration on the issue, said:

"They can't win even if they win a Senate test. The President would veto any extension of rigid supports and the whole issue is subject to a conference."

That was a reference to a compromise-seeking conference with the House, which has passed a modified version of the administration program, to be held after the Senate OKs its bill.

THAT APPEARED to be many thousands of words of oratory away. There have been two full days of debate and still there remained, on a pad on Vice President Nixon's desk, the names of 18 senators who want to speak on the issue.

GOP Leader Knowland said he still hopes for a vote today on the key issue of price supports.

Knowland, fighting for the Eisenhower administration's proposals for flexible and lower price supports, also scoffed at Young.

"We have two or three switches, too," Knowland commented.

Knowland added that both sides were anxious to have a vote on the issue.

Sens. Bridges (R-NH) and Payne (R-Maine) jumped into the debate today on the side of the administration.

Whisky Plant Cleaning Up Fire Debris

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Bulldozers lunged at heaps of smoldering debris today in a rush job to get the fire-scarred American Distilling Co. plant cleaned up for resumption of whisky making Monday.

A spectacular two-day fire that killed six persons, injured 33 and caused more than $7½ million damage was brought under control last night.

The searing blue flame ate up from 90,000 to 110,000 barrels of aging whisky—enough liquor to fill more than 22 million ordinary fifth gallon whisky bottles or a half billion one-ounce shot glasses.

This cost Uncle Sam at least $47½ million in potential alcohol tax collections—whisky being taxed at the rate of $10.50 a gallon as it is withdrawn from warehouses.

However, Russell R. Brown of Greenwich, Conn., company president who hurried to the scene, said the fire loss to his firm was fully covered by insurance.

He announced plans to have production operations up to almost full scale by Monday. The fire and explosions yesterday destroyed four and damaged three of the distillery's 15 buildings, but the distillery units, power plant and bottling facilities were spared.

This will mean employment again for some 600 distillery workers who had been laid off July 1.

The fire started early Wednesday morning, apparently from a bolt of lightning during a thunderstorm. It was not pronounced fully under control until 42 hours later.

Studebaker Aides Shun Pay Slash

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Some 5,000 workers at Studebaker Corp. last night turned down a 15 per cent pay cut which CIO United Auto Workers officials urged them to take to protect their jobs.

Paul G. Hoffman, Studebaker's board chairman, previously announced salaries to top executives had been cut 20 to 30 per cent in what he called a multi-million-dollar economy drive.

"Most of the workers just could not seem to accept a pay reduction after averaging only $35 a week for the last six months," a union spokesman said.

LIMA (AP)—Some 2,000 members of Local 724, United Electrical Workers (CIO) have been handed a disciplinary one-day layoff at the Westinghouse plant here.

The layoff today, the company announced, stemmed from incidents yesterday in which workers on two shifts walked off their jobs early to attend mass meetings.

The union voted during the meeting to strike if present contract negotiations fail.

Dem Chiefs Asking Truman For Advice On Campaigning

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Democratic party leaders turned for advice today to their star give-'em-hell campaigner—former President Harry S. Truman—on the eve of a big money drive aimed at capturing control of Congress in the November elections.

Adlai Stevenson, titular head of the party, and Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell arranged to see Truman at his home in nearby Independence, Mo., in a meeting that could very well influence campaign course.

Stevenson arrived here last night from Canada, a bit shaken from the experience of having his plane struck by lightning while flying at 14,000 feet over Lewiston, Mont. Neither he nor any of the other 15 aboard was injured.

Stevenson, the 1952 Democratic presidential nominee, admitted: "I was scared to death the first time in more than 30 years of flying."

Tonight Truman will make a brief pep talk to about 70 party bigwigs who came here to plan ways and means of building up quickly a not-so-hefty war chest.

THE FORMER President is still weak from a recent gall bladder and appendix operation, and friends have been asked not to tire him by shaking hands.

With the money talk, there was speculation over Mitchell's successor as national chairman. He has said he will step down after the November elections and return to his law practice in Chicago.

The name most prominently mentioned was that of James E. Finnegan, president of the Philadelphia City Council who has captained several successful campaigns in the Quaker City. Finnegan was an early pro-Stevenson man in the 1952 campaign.

Other names were Mike di Salle, former mayor of Toledo and head of the Office of Price Stabilization in the Truman administration; Paul Butler of Indianapolis, Democratic national committeeman; and Robert Butler of St. Paul, one-time ambassador.

Stevenson will be the wheel-horse in the money-raising drive and already has eight major speeches lined up for the weeks ahead—starting with one tomorrow in Omaha, Neb. Since 1952, he has poured more than $500,000 into the Democratic coffers with his fund-raising speeches.

Stevenson said the situation from the Democratic viewpoint "looks very wholesome" and that as for a winning strategy—"all it takes is a little good judgment on the part of the people."

Drugs Help Curb Girl's Sneezing

CLEVELAND (AP)—Sedatives were administered today to a 12-year-old girl who has been sneezing almost continuously for five days.

Only when Nancy Miller dozes fitfully under drugs does the sneezing stop.

Attendants at suburban Bay View Hospital said the case was "extremely rare."

Mrs. Nathan Miller, mother of the girl, explained, "It started all of a sudden and she couldn't stop." Hospital attendants said it was hoped the drugs would interrupt and finally stop the rhythm of the sneezing.

Hiroshima's Bells Toll In Memory Of Awful Hour Just Nine Years Ago

HIROSHIMA, Japan (AP)—The bells of Hiroshima tolled today for the awful hour of nine years ago.

Kiyochi Tsuchoka, member of the city council, remembers. He was only 1,000 yards from the blast center and his body is scarred by burns.

"I saw the great flash," he recalled. "The next moment I was blown several yards. I staggered back and thought I saw a second wave—a heat wave—which set fire to my shirt. I ripped off the burning shirt and ran to my home."

"The house was flattened and my wife was crying 'help, help' from under the debris. I was injured and could not lift the heavy beams and pillars that pinned her down. I looked around for help."

"I saw only dead bodies strewn around. I had to leave my dying wife because fire was spreading."

Her voice still rings in my ears," Prof. Kaneko Watanabe of Hiroshima University was also only 1,000 yards away but escaped without a scratch.

"I was in the library when the bomb exploded," he said. "Perhaps the books shielded me. I ran into the hall after the explosion and saw three of my colleagues dead, their skulls split open."

Watanabe found his wife and son unharmed in the suburbs, although their home was knocked down.

"I guess," he said, "we are the luckiest of all in Hiroshima."

teacher and county agent, said the administration program "will stop the senseless raid on the taxpayers to please a vociferous few."

Critics of the proposal for flexible price supports, for whom Young is unofficial spokesman, have done most of the talking so far, perhaps in hope of picking up a few votes before an actual test.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), floor manager for the administration bill and chairman of the agriculture committee, said his camp is ready for a vote.

PENDING is Aiken's amendment to the Senate bill to authorize a system of flexible price supports on wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts at from 80 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a computed price paid by law to give a farm product a fair relative purchasing power in terms of farm costs.

Aiken's committee rejected 8-7 the flexible supports in favor of a one-year extension of mandatory 90 per cent supports on the five basic crops. A sixth, tobacco, would continue at 90 per cent under both proposals.

The administration asked originally for flexible supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, but President Eisenhower described himself as well pleased with the House vote for a range from 82 1/2 to 90 per cent.

Failure of Congress to agree on a new act, or its veto, would bring into effect next year a flexible support law first put on the books in 1948 under the Truman administration.

However, this flexible system has not been permitted by Congress to go into effect, the farm bloc showing enough strength to extend the rigid support plan each year. The present rigid plan is to expire Dec. 31.

Two Gangs Fight At Ashville Dance

Two gangs of 10 youths each squared off at an Ashville dance Thursday night but quickly cooled down.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said he was called at 10:30 p. m. to the Community Park at Ashville to break up a fight at a dance. The dance is a regular Thursday night affair sponsored by the American Legion, he added.

One troupe turned out to be from Circleville while the other was from Ashville, the deputy said.

All participants were taken before South Bloomfield Magistrate Walter Heise's court.

Heise finally dismissed everyone with a warning against any future trouble.

Extended Five-Day Weather Forecast

Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal maximum 83-87; normal minimum 63-65. Cool and below normal over the weekend, gradually warming Monday through Wednesday. Scattered showers likely near the Ohio River late tonight and over other sections of state about Tuesday. Showers expected to average one quarter inch or less.

Ohio Bell Aide Sees 'Fallacy' In Opposition

COLUMBUS — The special counsel for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. says he has exposed the "fallacy" of arguments against the company's proposed $8,913,000 annual rate increase.

Ashley Van Duzer, representing Ohio Bell in the hearing before the state utilities commission on the company's application for the increase, said yesterday:

"I think the fallacy of the whole thing is partly exposed by the inability of the witness to answer some of the questions."

Van Duzer referred to William M. Wasick, Akron utilities director and a witness for the bloc of cities opposing Ohio Bell's increase application. The cities contend Ohio Bell should slash its present rates by an amount greater than it wants to raise them.

Van Duzer's remark followed Wasick's testimony that Ohio Bell would better its financial condition and thus facilitate the lowering of its rates by assuming a greater bonded indebtedness. When Wasick's counsel, Akron Law Director Richard O. Gantz, tried to ward off cross examination by Van Duzer, the Ohio Bell chief special counsel said this indicated the fallacy of the testimony.

Today's cross examination of Wasick developed into a battle of wits between the witness from Akron and Van Duzer.

Van Duzer indicated he thought Wasick had dropped one study of comparative earnings of Bell affiliates because it would not aid his case. Wasick insisted he did not use the study because he found it did not apply to the case.

Teaching Staffs Fully Completed At Every School In Circleville

The teaching staffs at Circleville schools are now complete, according to city superintendent of schools George Hartman.

"In spite of the tremendous teacher shortage," he said, "Circleville met its needs at an early date. This was very fortunate for us."

Hartman said that six new teachers were hired to care for the large increase in enrollment. Actually, he explained, ten were hired and four resigned.

"We would like to announce that Circleville High School grades 7 to 12, will be able to meet the recommendation of the State Department of Education in its physical education program for the first time," Hartman pointed out.

"MEETING this requirement means two periods of physical education per week for every pupil. This was made possible by the completion of the new physical education building."

Hartman added that the schedule for 1954-55 is now complete. There are classes scheduled for every period in the day in the new building for physical education instruction.

Teachers and assignments in the buildings where they will work was revealed by Hartman as follows:

ATWATER SCHOOL
Grade 3, Mrs. Mary Lamb, principal; kindergarten, Janet Norris; grade 1, Mrs. Kathryn Bower; grade 2, Mrs. Margaret Snider; grade 2, Mrs. Lucille Scott; grade 2, Mrs. Lucille Roebuck.

WALNUT SCHOOL

Grade 4, Ethel Stein, principal; kindergarten, Norma Howard; grade 1, Doris Schreiner, Mrs. Ruth Thompson; grade 2, Mrs. Mabel Richards, Mrs. Maxine Scranton; grade 3, Mrs. Eleanor Fisher.

Chillicothean Held In Shooting Case

BELLEFONTAINE — A Chillicothe pipefitter working on the Southern Ohio atomic plant construction has admitted shooting Homer Myers, 55, at the Myers residence at Indian Lake, Sheriff Fred Foerster said today.

The pipefitter, Samuel Bunting, 33, was picked up by Piqua police on a drinking charge last night.

Myers, operator of the Island View Tavern at Indian Lake, now is in a Lima hospital with two bullet wounds. Foerster quoted Bunting as saying he thought his wife, Edna, had been with Myers. Myers was acquitted in July 1953 of murder in the love triangle slaying of Elmer Haney, 23, of Alger.

Sen. Kefauver Wins Easily In Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Sen. Estes Kefauver kept his position as a presidential possibility yesterday as he and Gov. Frank Clement won assured re-election by crushing majorities in Tennessee's Democratic primary.

The winner of the Republican senatorial primary was Ray H. Jenkins, the Army-McCarthy hearing special counsel who did not seek the nomination and said he would not run if he got it.

The figures from 2,084 of the state's 2,591 precincts tell the Democratic primary story:

Senate: Kefauver 326,424; Rep. Pat Sutton 137,386.

Governor: Clement 368,917; former Gov. Gordon Browning 151,824.

Kefauver, who won most of the Democratic primaries and lost in the convention in the 1952 presidential derby, said yesterday's victory over Sutton was a triumph over isolationism.

Sutton, who conducted a fast-paced helicopter campaign between marathon radio-television broadcasts, conceded at midnight.

It was a smashing personal success for Clement, who is the nation's youngest governor at the age of 34. His victory margin in the race for the state's first four-year term was impressive.

A third candidate, Judge Raulston Schofield, drew more than 20,000 votes with a pro-segregation campaign.

In the GOP primary, limited mostly to eastern Tennessee, the reluctant Jenkins ran far ahead of Robert Gregory, a newcomer on the political scene. The totals from 180 precincts: Jenkins 6,545; Gregory 1,385.

There was no Republican candidate for governor.

Roundtown Retrospect

By Mac Noggle

DID YOU KNOW — That they are planning to destroy the island of Harmar Blennerhassett?

They say it isn't so, but we shall see what happens when our Washington spenders finish doling out another billion dollar to raise the level and to increase the area of navigable water of the Ohio. It will mean goodbye to the locale of probably the strangest and most intriguing pageant of American history.

Who was Blennerhassett? He was of English birth, a graduate of Trinity College, and came to America—not for political reasons—but from the impulse of a poetic nature. He had the wealth and the leisure to realize a dream of establishing his earthly paradise on an island in the Ohio.

There he built a mansion of a grandeur unexampled in a country where most men lived in log cabins. Of this is written—"a shrubbery blooms around him, that a King might have envied music that might have charmed Calypso and her nymphs is his."

Sutton, who conducted a fast-paced helicopter campaign between marathon radio-television broadcasts, conceded at midnight.

an extensive library spreads its treasures before him and to crown the enchantment of the scene, a wife, graced with every accomplishment and who is said to be lovely beyond her sex-blessed him with her love."

To this home came Aaron Burr—as bad, brave and brilliant man as ever figured in our public life. It may never be known clearly what he hoped to do, yet we do know that he schemed to conquer Mexico from Spain, and set up a throne for him to sit upon. Blennerhassett was fanatical and fell for his scheme.

In so doing, he lost his fortune and was forced to flee from arrest. Troops seized his island, pillaged his house and ruined the grounds. In 1811 the house was burned.

Harmar Blennerhassett died in 1831 and seven years later, his wife ended her days in a New York tenement house. Aaron Burr spent the rest of his life as "the man without a country."

No drama was ever written more poignant than the true story of Blennerhassett Island.

Blennerhassett Island is in the Ohio River, about five miles west of Parkersburg, West Virginia. A good view of this island can be had from U. S. Highway No. 50, which parallels the Ohio River at this point.

Anti-Ike Plan Force Claiming New Support

Critics of the proposal for flexible price supports, for whom Young is unofficial spokesman, have done most of the talking so far, perhaps in hope of picking up a few votes before an actual test.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt.), floor manager for the administration bill and chairman of the agriculture committee, said his camp is ready for a vote.

PENDING is Aiken's amendment to the Senate bill to authorize a system of flexible price supports on wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts at from 80 to 90 per cent of parity. Parity is a computed price said by law to give a farm product a fair relative purchasing power in terms of farm costs.

Aiken's committee rejected 8-7 the flexible supports in favor of a one-year extension of mandatory 90 per cent supports on the five basic crops. A sixth, tobacco, would continue at 90 per cent under both proposals.

The administration asked originally for flexible supports between 75 and 90 per cent of parity, but President Eisenhower described himself as well pleased with the House vote for a range from 82½ to 90 per cent.

Failure of Congress to agree on a new act, or its veto, would bring into effect next year a flexible support law first put on the books in 1948 under the Truman administration.

However, this flexible system has not been permitted by Congress to go into effect, the farm bloc showing enough strength to extend the rigid support plan each year. The present rigid plan is to expire Dec. 31.

Two Gangs Fight At Ashville Dance

Two gangs of 10 youths each squared off at an Ashville dance Thursday night but quickly cooled down.

Deputy Sheriff Dwight Radcliff said he was called at 10:30 p. m. to the Community Park at Ashville to break up a fight at a dance. The dance is a regular Thursday night affair sponsored by the American Legion, he added.

One troupe turned out to be from Circleville while the other was from Ashville, the deputy said.

All participants were taken before South Bloomfield Magistrate Walter Heise's court.

Heise finally dismissed everyone with a warning against any future trouble.

Extended Five-Day Weather Forecast

Temperatures will average two to four degrees below normal. Normal maximum 83-87; normal minimum 63-65. Cool and below normal over the weekend, gradually warming Monday through Wednesday. Scattered showers likely near the Ohio River late tonight and over other sections of state about Tuesday. Showers expected to average one quarter inch or less.

Ohio Bell Aide Sees 'Fallacy' In Opposition

COLUMBUS (AP) — The special counsel for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. says he has exposed the "fallacy" of arguments against the company's proposed $8,913,000 annual rate increase.

Robert Dennis, of New Holland Route 1; Wayne Zwyer, of Groveport Route 1; Carl R. Long, of Washington C. H. Route 5; and Bobby L. Keller, of Williamsport. The next call is Aug. 23 for six men.

Sen. Kefauver Wins Easily In Primary

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Sen. Estes Kefauver kept his position as a presidential possibility yesterday as he and Gov. Frank Clement won assured re-election by crushing majorities in Tennessee's Democratic primary.

The winner of the Republican senatorial primary was Ray H. Jenkins, the Army-McCarthy hearing special counsel who did not seek the nomination and said he would not run if he got it.

The figures from 2,084 of the state's 2,591 precincts tell the Democratic primary story: Senate: Kefauver 326,424; Rep. Pat Sutton 137,386.

Governor: Clement 368,917; former Gov. Gordon Browning 151,824.

Kefauver, who won most of the Democratic primaries and lost in the convention in the 1952 presidential derby, said yesterday's victory over Sutton was a triumph over isolationism.

Sutton, who conducted a fast-paced helicopter campaign between marathon radio-television broadcasts, conceded at midnight.

It was a smashing personal success for Clement, who is the nation's youngest governor at the age of 34. His victory margin in the race for the state's first four-year term was impressive.

A third candidate, Judge Raulston Schoolfield, drew more than 20,000 votes with a pro-segregation campaign.

In the GOP primary, limited mostly to eastern Tennessee, the reluctant Jenkins ran far ahead of Robert Gregory, a newcomer on the political scene. The totals from 180 precincts: Jenkins 6,545; Gregory 1,385.

There was no Republican candidate for governor.

DID YOU KNOW — That they are planning to destroy the island of Harnar Blennerhassett?

They say it isn't so, but we shall see what happens when our Washington spenders finish doling out another billion dollar to raise the level and to increase the area of navigable water of the Ohio. It will mean goodbye to the locale of probably the strangest and most intriguing pagant of American history.

Who was Blennerhassett? He was of English birth, a graduate of Trinity College, and came to America—not for political reasons—but from the impulse of a poetic nature. He had the wealth and the leisure to realize a dream of establishing his earthly paradise on an island in the Ohio.

There he built a mansion of a grandeur unexampled in a country where most men lived in log cabins. Of this is written— "A shrubby blooms around him, that a King might have envied, music that might have charmed Calypso and her nymphs is his."

Unidentified Thief Gets 'Sweet' Haul

A "sweet" haul was reported Friday morning by the sheriff's department here.

According to a report, someone entered a bee house belonging to Beecher Ingraham on Route 277 on the Fayette-Pickaway County line. A number of hives were reported knocked over and others burned. The honey was taken by the sticky-fingered individual.

an extensive library spreads its treasures before him and to crown the enchantment of the scene, a wife, graced with every accomplishment and who is said to be lovely beyond her sex-blessed him with her love."

To this home came Aaron Burr as bad, brave and brilliant man as ever figured in our public life. It may never be known clearly what he hoped to do, yet we do know, that he schemed to conquer Mexico from Spain, and set up a throne for him to sit upon. Blennerhassett was fanatical and fell for his scheme.

In so doing, he lost his fortune and was forced to flee from arrest. Troops seized his island, pillaged his house and ruined the grounds. In 1811 the house was burned.

Harnar Blennerhassett died in 1831 and seven years later, his wife ended her days in a New York tenement house. Aaron Burr spent the rest of his life as "the man without a country."

No drama was ever written more poignant than the true story of Blennerhassett Island.

Blennerhassett Island is in the Ohio River, about five miles west of Parkersburg, West Virginia. A good view of this island can be had from U. S. Highway No. 50, which parallels the Ohio River at this point.

West Chalks Victory In Iranian Oil

New Contract Keeps Vital Product Out Of Russian Hands

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The victory: The United States and its Allies are keeping Iranian oil out of the hands of the Russians.

The price: The headache of trying to ease a new flow of oil into a world stream already distending its banks. Where will the oil be sold? Will it lower prices at the corner service station?

The dangers: 1. Arousing the resentment of Iran's Middle East neighbors, who may lose some of their own oil revenues in making room for Iran's oil; 2. Drawing down the ire of American independent oil companies whose output already is cut back because of the over-supply of oil; and 3. Encouraging other countries to follow Iran's nationalization tactics.

American oilmen think they can work out a way to pay the price painlessly and to avoid the dangers by taking it slow and easy.

They contend that little Iranian oil will come to American shores—domestic producers would clamor too loud if it did. Prices here would be affected little—unless the world price structure cracked under the strain.

When Iran closed down its English-owned oil industry three years ago, the world's oil supply was tight. And Iran, with 650,000 barrels a day capacity, was furnishing 6 per cent of the total output of the non-Communist world.

Since then its neighbors, Kuwait, Iraq and Saudi Arabia, have stepped up their output to more than make up the difference. They are producing at a rate of 2½ million barrels a day.

World demand has increased by one-fourth in the three years. But capacity to produce oil has increased even more. Production has had to be cut back. There's no real need for Iran's oil now—in the non-Communist world. But Russia could use it.

Russia and its satellites have increased their oil output by 36 per cent since pre-World War II days. But in the same 15 years the United States alone has doubled its oil output, and is estimated to have seven times the productive capacity of the Soviets.

In wartime that would be all-important. Russia's oil lack is considered one of the best insurances against its starting World War III at this time.

The American, English, French and Dutch oil companies that have banded together to peddle Iran's oil and oil products hope that the steadily rising world oil demand will ease their task.

Demand is growing faster this year in other lands than in the United States, although this is still the major oil product user.

Working slowly, the companies contracting to produce and market Iran's oil plan full production from its wells about 1957, and expect to get the refinery at Abadan turning out 300,000 barrels of petroleum products a day about the same time. That should give Iran from 150 to 200 million dollars a year revenue from its oil.

This could ease the burden on the American taxpayer, who has been putting up money in grants to Iran to keep it going while its oil wells were down—and to keep it out of the control of Russia.

Damage Suit Filed In Gas Explosion

CLEVELAND (AP)—A $400,000 damage suit has been filed by a Cleveland couple who said they were injured in the West Side street explosion last Sept. 10. In their suit, Thomas and Betty Danko charged the explosion was caused by inflammable liquids discharged into sewers.

Named as defendants were the cities of Cleveland and Lakewood, which allegedly failed to ventilate and maintain regular inspection of the sewers, the Glidden Co., Sun Oil Co. and Shell Oil Co. The Dankos said they suffered bruises and cuts when their automobile was blown off the ground in the blast.

7 Million Stockholders Due For Special Taxation Relief

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of articles explaining the new, big federal income tax law.

By CHARLES F. BARRETT

WASHINGTON (AP)—More than seven million corporation stockholders will share in the most controversial tax cut in all the 1,000 pages of the new tax revision bill.

After talking about it for years, Congress finally has restored a special tax benefit on dividends. It will reduce revenues an estimated 204 million dollars the first year, up to 363 millions in later years.

Dividend income received special treatment under tax laws until 1936, when Democrats struck it out in the heyday of the "New Deal." The new tax cut is a symbol of the return to power of Republican tax philosophy.

It is far less than recommended by the Eisenhower administration, but it is still substantial and it re-establishes the principle.

The tax cut is two-edged: First, you pay no taxes on the first $50 of dividends received each year. You can automatically exclude this $50 from your income for tax purposes.

Second, you get a "tax credit"—a further direct tax cut—of 4 per cent of your remaining dividend income.

The timing is important this year. The $50 deduction applies to dividends dated last Jan. 1, or thereafter. The 4 per cent credit applies only to dividends received after last Saturday—July 31.

There is a limit to the amount you can claim under the 4 per cent dividend tax credit.

On your 1954 tax return, due next April 15, you can't claim dividend credit totaling more than 2 per cent of your "taxable" income, which is your income after all deductions and exemptions—the final figure on which the tax rate is applied.

In future years, you can't claim a dividend tax credit of more than 4 per cent of your taxable income. So if most or all your income is from dividends, you probably won't be able to get the full 4 per cent credit.

And you can't get any tax cut on dividends received from mutual savings banks or building and loan associations, life insurance companies, foreign corporations, non-profit cooperatives, or mutual insurance companies.

Ex-Solon Dies

ance companies. These firms already are either tax-free, or not taxed as heavily as most corporations.

If a husband and wife both have dividend income, and they file a joint return, they can deduct dividends received by each of them up to $50, for a total deduction of $100.

But if the wife receives $35 in dividends and the husband $65. They can deduct only $85—the $50 maximum for the husband and the $35 for the wife.

Here are examples of how all this adds up on tax returns:

Say you have a family of four with $9,500 regular income and $1,000 income from dividends—a total of $10,500.

Both husband and wife have more than $50 in dividends, so first you subtract the $100 dividend exclusion, leaving $10,400 in income.

Then you subtract your $2,400 in personal exemptions and the standard personal deduction of $1,000, leaving taxable income of $7,000.

Your regular tax rate would run to a tax bill of $1,460. But now you take 4 per cent of the $900 in dividends left after your exclusion. This is $36, which is subtracted from $1,460 to leave a final tax payment of $1,424.

The dividend provision saved you $58—$22 on your $100 exclusion, and $36 on your 4 per cent credit.

The administration argues all this will encourage public investment in stocks, and that this will help business expand and create more and better jobs for everybody. Republicans protest corporation profits are taxed twice—first under the corporation tax rate, and again under personal rates when passed out as dividends.

Opponents argue 80 per cent of the dividend tax cut, or 290 million dollars, will go to six-tenths of 1 per cent of American families. They say this is an unjustified special benefit to wealthy persons.

Kentucky Set To Vote For Varied Nominees

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Voters of this border state tomorrow will nominate 10 congressional candidates in a quiet prelude to a keen U.S. senatorial race expected to match names—Cooper and Barkley—regarded by some Kentuckians as having political magic.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, Somerset Republican seeking reelection and former Vice President Alben W. Barkley, Paducah Democrat running to regain the senatorial post he had before being elected "Veep" in 1948, are without strong opposition in their primaries. Each is backed by his state party organization.

The 76-year-old Barkley and 52-year-old Cooper have been speaking for some time—although doing little formal campaigning—and leaders of both parties anticipate one of the most heated races in Kentucky history between the pair before the Nov. 2 general election.

In District primaries tomorrow, eight nominees for the U.S. House of Representatives also will be picked.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The French still stall on approving a single European Army which would include Frenchmen and Germans. The United States and Britain have indicated, if the stall continues, they will consider granting the West Germans sovereignty. It's guarded talk, more like a nudge.

The word sovereignty in Germany's case sounds bigger than it is. It would not mean full independence. Nor would it mean immediate rearmament. It might mean that later.

But giving Germany sovereignty without French approval could lead to an Anglo-American split with the French.

The United States has looked upon an unarméd Germany as a soft spot in Western Europe against possible Russian attack. But how could the Germans be permitted to rearm without letting them become a menace again to their neighbors? The solution seemed to lie in a single European Army—called EDC, the European Defense Community.

That single army would be made up of troops from France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands. It would be about a two-million-man force, all wearing the same uniforms and under a single command. The German contribution would be perhaps 500,000 men.

Although this would let the Germans rearm to a limited degree, they still couldn't have a separate, national army under a revived German general staff. The EDC idea seemed all right to the French, when they first proposed it several years ago. Later the French had second thoughts. Some Frenchmen feared the thought of a Germany rearmed at all. Some foresaw Germany as the possible dominator of EDC.

EDC couldn't come into existence without French approval. The French delayed although all other participants except Italy gave their okay. The United States kept pressing. Nothing happened. Finally French Premier Mendes-France said he would put the question to the French Assembly before it adjourned this month. Meantime, he has run into other troubles which may sidetrack EDC.

There are two important agreements in the background, involving the United States, France, Britain, and West Germany. One was made at Bonn, the West German capital, the other at Paris. The Bonn agreement covers the question of restoring sovereignty to Germany. The Paris agreement covers creation of EDC.

In short, the agreements say: There can be no sovereignty for Germany until EDC comes into existence, with German troops a part of it and Germany therefore not free to set up its own army. The French can protest the United States and Britain have broken the two agreements if they attempt to give Germany sovereignty before the French approve EDC.

But, by that reasoning, West Germany could be kept unarmed

Mother Of World War II Hero At Peace In Small Mining Town

HILL CITY, S. D. (AP) — How can a middle-aged woman who has lost her husband and reared her children adjust to a world that suddenly seems empty?

That was the problem that faced Mrs. Arthur Wermuth, mother of Maj. Art Wermuth, the famous "one-man army of Ba-taan."

She found the answer by turning her back on the busy social life of Chicago and settling down in a cabin in this old small (pop. less than 500) mining town in the Black Hills. She lives alone with her 8-year-old Dalmatian watchdog, "Sissy," and says she has found here a new peace and purpose in life.

"Ever since I came here," she said, "I have loved these hills so much that I could kiss the ground for the happiness they brought me."

Sitting in the living room of her log home, Mrs. Wermuth, a vivacious, dark-eyed woman whose age is still her own secret, told the story of her life.

"When I was in the third year in high school I had my appendix out," she recalled. "The surgeon had a son, who was also a doctor and helped him."

"I started hollering for the young doctor, and wouldn't let the old man take care of me. Before I left the hospital the son and I were engaged."

"I guess he fell in love with my insides."

"But for more than 24 years no woman ever had a finer husband. He was a good man."

The young doctor became a famous overworked surgeon. In 1925 his wife talked him into coming to the Black Hills on a fishing trip, and each year after that they returned.

"In Chicago he belonged to the forever if the French never let EDC come into existence. That's the dilemma the United States and Britain face in wanting to keep France a firm ally and at the same time patching up the soft spot of an unarmed Germany."

Right now United States, British and French troops occupy three zones of West Germany. And representatives of those three, called high commissioners, keep some control over the West German government. For instance, they can veto certain kinds of legislation passed by the German Parliament. As an example: laws on cartels. Also, they control West Germany's relations with other governments.

If Germany is granted sovereignty, the three high commissioners take the title of ambassadors. They will no longer, it is believed, veto German legislation. They would not control West Germany's foreign relations, or probably wouldn't, since that would have to be worked out. And the occupation troops no longer would be called by that name. Undoubtedly they'd stay in Germany, but as "guests" for defense purposes.

And the Allies would be boss if the time ever came—no one looks for it in the foreseeable future—to make a final peace treaty on Germany with the Russians and arrange for the reunification of West and East Germany. The Russians still are boss in East Germany.

people, and the city finally killed him," she said. "But out here he belonged only to me—and here we found peace together."

Widowed shortly before the war, Mrs. Wermuth spent nine years traveling about the country with her daughter, Talia, who had become a professional dancer. They were tiring, anxious years.

Her son had won fame by killing more than 100 Japanese single-handed in patrol actions on Ba-taan before being taken prisoner.

"For more than 3½ years I worried every night that they would kill him in prison camp," she said.

After the war she settled here with her daughter, who is married to a businessman in nearby Custer. Her son is now in the insurance business in Denver.

"To this day we have never talked about the war," she remarked. "Some day, mother, I'll tell you about it," he said, and some day, when he is ready, he will tell me. But it is over, and now he doesn't want even to hear about it."

"So far he hasn't even looked at the scrapbook I collected about his heroism, but some time he will. I also still have the gavel used in the House of Representatives to declare war on Italy and Germany. It was given to me by Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas."

The shelves of her four-room cabin are crowded with souvenirs of her travels. The shelf above the fireplace holds the bronzed first baby shoes of her two children and the skull of a gorilla, given to her in Seattle.

Mrs. Wermuth now is a familiar figure in the Black Hills, and held in high affection for her acts of kindness. Even the crustiest old prospector waves as she wheels by on a trout fishing trip.

"No, I don't miss the city social life I used to know," she said. "Here they have something much better than society—a neighborliness you don't find in many places."

"The Rocky Mountains are so big they give you a feeling of loneliness. But the Black Hills give you a feeling of serenity, peace."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jack Kreske, owner of a Columbus plumbing supply firm, told police it was all his wife's fault.

"Every time we'd go out, she'd play the slot machines. Finally, I said, 'look, honey, I'll buy you one.'"

Kreske said he bought an "old, broken down machine for her, figuring we could fix it up and she could play it. She's the only one that's put a nickel in it since and it's been in our basement all the time."

Police, embarked on an anti-pin ball drive, confiscated the machine from the recreation room of Kreske's home yesterday. Now he faces a $50 to $200 fine and six months in the workhouse for possession of the one-armed bandit.

Columbus Police Chief Given Fine

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — George W. Scholer was named Columbus chief of police a few weeks ago.

Two weeks later his automobile and that of a patrolman crashed at an intersection.

The chief was arrested for failing to yield the right-of-way. The patrolman was not held.

Judge Charles R. Petree found the chief guilty in traffic court yesterday and fined Scholer $10 and costs.

The chief paid it, then congratulated the officers who had investigated the case on their fair and unbiased reports.

New Poison Ivy Lotion Tested

CINCINNATI (AP) — A new lotion to stop itching from poison ivy in a few hours is being tested with good results at the University of Cincinnati College of Medicine.

Dr. Leon Goldman, head of the dermatology department, said based on experiments even severe cases can be cleared up within a few days instead of the two weeks generally needed.

Treatment, however, should begin as soon as possible after contact for quick results, he told a newsman.

"When the poison ivy gets bad, internal treatments also are needed," Dr. Goldman said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The French still stall on approving a single European Army which would include Frenchmen and Germans. The United States and Britain have indicated, if the stall continues, they will consider granting the West Germans sovereignty. It's guarded talk, more like a nudge.

The world sovereignty in Germany's case bigger than it is. It wouldn't mean full independence. Nor would it mean immediate rearmament. It might mean that later.

But giving Germany sovereignty without French approval could lead to an Anglo-American split with the French.

The United States has looked upon an unarmed Germany as a soft spot in Western Europe against possible Russian attack. But how could the Germans be permitted to rearm without letting them become a menace again to their neighbors? The solution seemed to lie in a single European Army—called EDC, the European Defense Community.

That single army would be made up of troops from France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, Luxembourg, the Netherlands. It would be about a two-million-man force, all wearing the same uniforms and under a single command. The German contribution would be perhaps 500,000 men.

Although this would let the Germans rearm to a limited degree, they still couldn't have a separate, national army under a revived German general staff. The EDC idea seemed all right to the French, when they first proposed it several years ago. Later the French had second thoughts. Some Frenchmen feared the thought of a Germany rearmend at all. Some foresaw Germany as the possible dominator of EDC.

EDC couldn't come into existence without French approval. The French delayed although all other participants except Italy gave their okay. The United States kept pressing. Nothing happened. Finally French Premier Mendes-France said he would put the question to the French Assembly before it adjourned this month. Meantime, he has run into other troubles which may sidetrack EDC.

There are two important agreements in the background, involving the United States, France, Britain, and West Germany. One was made at Bonn, the West German capital, the other at Paris. The Bonn agreement covers the question of restoring sovereignty to Germany. The Paris agreement covers creation of EDC.

In short, the agreements say: There can be no sovereignty for Germany until EDC comes into existence, with German troops a part of it and Germany therefore not free to set up its own army. The French can protest the United States and Britain have broken the two agreements if they attempt to give Germany sovereignty before the French approve EDC.

But, by that reasoning, West Germany could be kept unarmed

PROVING ALL THINGS, HOLD FAST THE GOOD

Scripture—Matthew 6:19-34; Galatians 5:16-23; Philippians 1:9-11; 4:8; 1 Thessalonians 5:21-22.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
CHOOSING the best is the subject of our lesson today. What do you consider the "best" things in life? What makes you happiest or gives you the greatest satisfaction?

Some people spend their lives trying to become rich; others collect things of different kinds. Both may gloat over their success in their choices, but do such things make one truly happy? They may bring some satisfaction but not real joy.

Small children also collect things—some collect live pets, others store away various things that take their fancy. It is the teacher's job to try to make them see that while their collections may give them pleasure, they are not the real treasures that make for lasting joy.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal," said Christ.

Rust, moth and time do play havoc with collections unless they are preserved with much care.

might have been happy have been broken up by wrangling over money matters.

Next Jesus points out that even such necessities as food, drink and clothing are not the most important in life. "Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?" He asks. He speaks of the birds, that they do not store food, but they are fed; "Are ye not much better than they?"

"Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit unto his stature? And why take ye thought of raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: And yet I say unto you that even Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these. Wherefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall He not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith?"

We must work for our food and clothing, it is true, but we need not consider them too important and worry about them too much—the types of food we eat, the

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."—1 Thessalonians 5:21.

And, after all, they are only collections of material things. We cannot take them with us when we leave this earth, but Jesus said further:

"Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal; for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

What are treasures in heaven? For the very young and those a little older, Love stands first; love of parents, relatives and friends; and also—and this is very important—all those with whom we come in contact at home, school, on the playground. Even if some do not "appeal to us," as we say, they deserve our interest, our consideration, our desire to help and understand.

"No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

Mammon may mean money which most of us feel is very important, or other things which we may grow to worship or look at with feelings close to that sensation. The intense love of money may prove, indeed, the death of happiness. How many homes that style of clothes we wear, so that they come to mean more to us than the real things of life.

Jesus continued, "But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and His righteousness: and all these things shall be added unto you."

Paul writes to the Philippians: "And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in the knowledge and in all judgment; that ye may approve things that are excellent; that ye may be sincere and without offence till the day of Christ;

"Being filled with fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any praise, think on these things."

To the Thessalonians Paul wrote: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil."

If we could get our young people to memorize these words of Christ and Paul, and not only to memorize them, but to hold them in their hearts, we would have no juvenile delinquency to deal with.

CHOOSING the best is the subject of our lesson today. What do you consider the "best" things in life? What makes you happiest or gives you the greatest satisfaction?

Some people spend their lives trying to become rich; others collect things of different kinds. Both may gloat over their success in their choices, but do such things make one truly happy?

They may bring some satisfaction but not real joy. Small children also collect things—some collect live pets, others store away various things that take their fancy. It is the teacher's job to try to make them see that while their collections may give them pleasure, they are not the real treasures that make for lasting joy.

"Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth, where moth and rust doth corrupt, and where thieves break through and steal," said Christ.

Rust, moths and time do play havoc with collections unless they are preserved with much care.

"Prove all things; hold fast that which is good."—1 Thessalonians 5:21.

And, after all, they are only collections of material things. We cannot take them with us when we leave this earth, but Jesus said further:

"Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal; for where your treasure is, there will your heart be also."

What are treasures in heaven? For the very young and those a little older, Love stands first; love of parents, relatives and friends; and also—and this is very important—all those with whom we come in contact at home, school, on the playground. Even if some do not "appeal to us," as we say, they deserve our interest, our consideration, our desire to help and understand.

"No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon."

Mammon may mean money which most of us feel is very important, or other things which we may grow to worship or look at with feelings close to that sensation. The intense love of money may prove, indeed, the death of happiness. How many homes that might have been happy have been broken up by wrangling over money matters.

Next Jesus points out that even such necessities as food, drink and clothing are not the most important in life. "Is not the life more than meat, and the body than raiment?" He asks. He speaks of the birds, that they do not store food, but they are fed; "Are ye not much better than they?"

"Being filled with fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ, unto the glory and praise of God."

Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

To the Thessalonians Paul wrote: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good. Abstain from all appearance of evil."

If we could get our young people to memorize these words of Christ and Paul, and not only to memorize them, but to hold them in their hearts, we would have no juvenile delinquency to deal with.

RECALLING OTHER DAYS

DEMISE OF George Kelly of machine gun fame could provide the theme for another crime-doesn't-pay commentary. Kelly died in prison for a crime committed 21 years ago. The crime netted him $200,000 in cash. Now relatives say they haven't $125 to give him the least pretentious burial.

This is a fitting send-off for the former dapper big shot of the underworld, who spent nearly half his life behind bars.

But this is in strange contrast to the early 1930s when criminals all but dominated big cities and operated with little hindrance. A wave of crime spread from coast to coast. They were experts at murder, kidnaping, bank robbery. Names of these desperadoes were household words.

Kelly, John Dillinger, Baby Face Nelson, Pretty Boy Floyd, Harvey Bailey and others. Of this list, only Bailey is alive, and he is in prison.

When the nation enacted laws which made their crimes federal offenses the Federal Bureau of Investigation moved in. More diligence on the part of state and local officials helped bring an end to their operations. They have been succeeded by petty punks who will meet similar fates.

UNCLE SAM IN BUSINESS

ONE OF THE administration's first moves to take government out of business was to wind up the affairs of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. But Congress substituted the Small Business Administration, and Uncle Sam is still engaged in private business.

As the Wall Street Journal points out, the federal government still roasts coffee, repairs furniture, makes ice cream and presses pants. These are only a few examples of government operations which touch practically every line of business.

The administration finds it difficult to change a course of government followed for many years. No sooner does it announce moves to liquidate its interests in private enterprise than protests pour in and political pressure is exerted to maintain an enterprise held by some politicians to be vital to the local economy of their areas, and by leftwingers to be a step in the direction in which they are headed.

The practice of the government doing that which might be better done by private enterprise at lower cost is detrimental to the American system. Cost to the taxpayers is in the billions annually.

Younger persons should make a determined effort to remember current temperatures. As grandparents they will want to tell the kids about the terrible summer of 1954, with only the usual amount of exaggeration.

Modern psychologists say the whole family should do things together—when Mother gets home from bridge, presumably.

These Days

Perhaps it is fitting to add a footnote to the McCarthy-Stevens hearings and to say something about Senator Karl Mundt who bore the heaviest burden of presiding over his colleagues who, by the rules of the Senate, are sovereign each in his own right and none needs pay the slightest attention to the Chairman if he chooses not to and his manners are such.

Karl Mundt also faced the technical problem that Senator McCarthy, a principal in the case, acting as counsel for his side, was also a United States Senator who could not be deprived of his rights as a United States Senator by the Committee.

Each Senator sat not only as a judge and jury but as a prosecuting attorney with rights of examination and cross-examination and with the additional right to make a speech of summation whenever he chose. And many of them did.

The only rule that all agreed upon and lived up to was the 10 minute rule which meant that after a 10 minute period of interrogation or speech-making, a Senator would subside until his next turn came around unless he had a point of order to make which some made pointlessly or unless he rose to a matter of personal privilege which often consumed hours.

Presiding under such circumstance, with the television grinding away constantly, under the physical heat of klieg lights and the psychological heat engendered not only by mounting ambition but by vindictive hatred, was a very tough job. Some suggest that Mundt might have banged the gavel more often to shut his colleagues up. It would have been a fruitless exercise.

The task of the presiding officer was to prevent the hearings from going altogether haywire and to keep angry members of the Senate from either beating up each other verbally, which they did, or physically which they did not do. At times, it was anticipated that one or the other of them might have walked out, but that was not in the plan.

Were the Chairman not a voting member of the Committee, an outsider, an impartial person, he might have had an easier time of it, but Chairman Mundt could not shirk his responsibilities as a Committee member and also a part of what was, at first, the Republican majority and in due course became the Republican minority upon the defection of Senator Charles Potter. Curiously, I have met Senator Potter only once and that was in the apartment of G. David Schine's parents at the Waldorf-Astoria.

In all these circumstances, it seems to me that Karl Mundt did a remarkably good job and if his reputation as a Senator and his stature in his Party have been enhanced, he is deserving.

There is no evidence that John Bull would not consent to hold Uncle Sam's coat in case of a fight.

History discloses that George Washington was once compelled to take the oath of allegiance, and although in his case that was equivalent to endorsing his own check, he did not shout that his liberties were being taken away from him.

SYNOPSIS
When Charles Alexander Stewart absconded with funds from a bank in Philadelphia, he placed Carney Wilde's sleuthing career in jeopardy. Wilde was responsible for the security police of the bank. It was up to him now to find the thief who had disappeared after killing a policeman in the course of his flight. Wilde's troubles mount. His girl, Jane Grodnik, elopes with his friend, Penn Maxwell. Jane's father, Captain Grodnik of the local police, is as displeased with the match as is Carney, but they room-humoredly bow to the girl's choice.

CHAPTER FOUR

LIFE in Philadelphia was going to be difficult for me when I got out of the hospital—and it would be very unprofitable, too. I knew the boat trip was a useful idea or not. Just having a legitimate excuse to get away from Philadelphia for a while was good enough for me.

"Can you give me a letter or something?" I asked. "In case I run into..." Grodnik's grim face cracked into a wide grin. He pulled out a long official envelope and gave it to me. "Get the superintendent to write it for you," he said. "Show it to any cop and you'll get the best cell in the house."

"Captain," I muttered, "I'm beginning to think you know too much about handling me."

"I'm an expert in dangling carrots," Grodnik laughed. "And no jackass can resist them."

I sat back and stretched my good arm. "We're going to look a little foolish if Stewart got to South America or wherever before we even started."

"We look sort of foolish anyway," Grodnik said sourly. "Okay, captain. When does the boat leave?"

"Tomorrow night," I said. "I'll get up quickly. Can I make it?"

"Easy," Grodnik said. "A train tonight or a plane tomorrow. I reserved a deluxe bedroom on the boat, just in case. It's waiting for you."

"Fine," I said. "I'll catch a train tonight. I don't care much for flying over the mountains during the winter. You'll have to help me pack. And we've got a date at the Bellevue this evening, too. Remember?"

Slowly the laughter died from Grodnik's face. But he nodded agreeably.

As the train came into Cincinnati, the porter tapped at my door, pushed it open. "Take the bag, sir?"

"Let's wait till the car is clear," I said. "See if you can get one of the redcaps to come for me, will you?"

If Christian Dior's "flat look" takes hold, it will have three flattening effects. One will be husband's wallets.

It'll be the charge account paying men who will be busted.

Marlene Dietrich adopted a "wait and see" viewpoint on the "flat look." The longer she waits, the less there may be to see.

How would this pear-shaped measurement sound for a "Miss America" candidate—30-24-36?

The way things are going internationally, the "flat look" will eliminate the last of America's charms.

Well, a lot of foreigners have been anxious for a long time to make us draw in our chests.

Dior's long skirt "new look" took the country by storm a few years back. Ever since, it's been plain to Moscow we'll go for most anything to get an argument over with.

Bennett Cerf's

Try, Stop Me

In Rome, an earnest young student in the Vatican Library was en-

Last night we had come to a working agreement; the porter to contribute extra service, such as breakfast in my compartment; me to contribute 10 bucks and gratitude. The deal was still working.

I lit my last cigaret, crumpled the pack and bounced the wadded paper idly in my palm. I had slept well on the train; I'd managed a fairly smooth shave with only one hand to use, and my breakfast had been sizeable and very good. A sensible man would have counted his blessings and smoked his cigaret with considerable pleasure. I stubbed mine out in the ash-tray and glowered at the window.

Last night had been a busy time and I was ready for sleep before I got on the train. Just 12 hours out of the hospital had worn me to a nub. They'd been active hours. Maxwell's wedding reception was something of a trial, with Capt. Grodnik frowning and snarling at everyone, his wife crying softly whenever she tried to speak, and Jane and Maxwell snickering at each other. The captain and his lady came to dinner with me afterwards and then I had to pack a bag and get to the station in time to catch my train. Grodnik came along to help, and he became progressively more annoying as the evening progressed. His daughter had deserted him, he insisted, and that's all he needed to develop a fine load of piteous intensity. It was a sincere grief; he actually was deeply hurt, but sincere or not, I was ready to clout him long before I reached my train.

Grodnik had reason to lament, a meager reason, but justifiable in a fashion. I had my reasons, too. Less justifiable and all the more painful because of that. Jane Grodnik's obvious nappiness with her marriage made me remember the past year and remember things no man can recall pleasantly. With Jane I'd been close to something I wanted. Where and how it had slipped away from me—from us—I couldn't remember. There wasn't anything worth remembering, not any act or omission that gave the clue.

And that was the worst part of all. Once I had had a girl and a business. Now I had a business, at least for a while longer I had a business. And if I lost that, too, it would be my own foolish fault, just as the loss of Jane was my fault. None of that made for pleasant thinking.

"Ready, now, sir, if you are," the porter said. He slid my bag from the rack, put it in the aisle outside and lifted my heavy coat, holding it ready for me to pull on. I buttoned my jacket and got up, holding my right arm out for gaged in reading the works of a now obscure philosopher who died 170 years ago. Ploughing doggedly through the folio, he came suddenly upon a piece of paper on which was written, "The finder of this is advised to go to the Probate Court and look up File 162, R. 1/Rome, February 5, 1784." The paper bore the deceased philosopher's signature. The student followed through on the file to discover that the author had left his entire fortune—now totalling some 300,000 pounds—to the first person sufficiently interested in his work to get so far through the volumes. The result of the student's windfall was twofold: the student himself flew to the French Riviera, and the next day the rush on eighteen century philosophy tomes in the Vatican Library resembled the first day's ticket sale for a new Rodgers and Hammerstein musical.

Lead Poisoning Cases On Increase In Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ALTHOUGH it is not a common disease, lead poisoning cases seem to be on the increase, especially in small children. This becomes more unusual when it is considered that many manufacturers of paint are being more careful of the substances put into their product and of putting the word "lead" on paint containers.

The average age of the children afflicted with this disease is two-and-a-half years, and they usually come from families in the poorest economic groups. Their homes are often in poor condition, with paint peeling off the walls.

Most Frequent In Summer

Lead poisoning occurs most often in the summer months. It is often caused in children by chewing paint from cribs, furniture, woodwork or eating falling plaster or dry paint.

X-rays, blood counts and examination of the urine and blood make possible a definite diagnosis of lead poisoning.

It is normal for a child up to one year of age to put things in his mouth. However, after the first year, this becomes abnormal and is known as pica.

Besides the tendency to eat objects other than food, these children have abdominal pain, vomiting, constipation and loss of appetite, along with considerable weight loss. If it is a severe case, the nervous system may be affected, and the child may be drowsy, tired, and suffer behavior changes with severe temper tantrums. He is usually pale with a bluish marking on his gums.

A drug known as ethylene diamine tetracetate acid, commonly known as E.T.D.A., has been very dramatic in curing many cases of lead poisoning. However, some children still die needlessly of this disease.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. T.: Would the fact that a child was born prematurely have any effect on his mentality?
Answer: Premature birth does not directly affect the mentality of a child.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: This is the fifth in a series of articles from Egypt by Ray Tucker.

CAIRO—A brisk battle between the great international oil interests—American, British, Dutch—has developed as a result of certain geologists' belief that they will strike oil in the western Egyptian desert. It is the area where British Field Marshal Montgomery unloosed the thundering artillery barrage at El Alamein that drove Rommel into the arms of Eisenhower and heralded Hitler's eventual defeat.

Believing that the same sub-soil structure responsible for Iranian and Arabian strikes extends beneath the Suez Canal and into North Africa, the Naguib-Nasser regime asked the world's leading geologists to make preliminary explorations. The new government has revised its mineral and currency laws so as to attract foreign capital.

The scheme contradicts Egypt's new nationalistic spirit, which led to a "plague on both your houses" attitude to the United States and Russia. But this new, young crowd in control here is fairly realistic. They need Western know-how and mazzuma. Egypt asked Aramco, which markets Arabian oil, to handle the still speculative venture.

Aramco is owned 30 per cent by Standard Oil of New Jersey, 30 per cent by Standard Oil of California, 30 per cent by the Texas Company, and 10 per cent by Socony-Vacuum. The Americans, British and Dutch monopolize Iran's output. That fabulous man of Armenian descent, Calouste Sarkis Gulbenkian, who has swung many of these oil deals for the big companies, has a five per cent interest.

BIG OIL OUT—But the giant firms declined Egypt's invitation. In the first place, they have too much oil in production and prospect now, despite current high prices for gasoline. They also thought that the Naguib-Nasser regime wanted excessive royalties, and too low a price for retail sale within Egypt. Gasoline in Cairo costs 50 cents a gallon.

So, a group of smaller companies, known as "Camarado," have walked into Egypt in the hope of getting into petroleum's major leagues. It includes the Continental, Ohio and Amstar oil companies, all American firms. Another combine consists of Cities Service Company and the Richfield interests. There have been several regroupings, and there may be more, but these are the dominant corporations in the petroleum panorama of the Middle East. Some of the big companies may still sign up in the race to keep on top.

Politics may influence them. After all, and Naguib know it, Egypt could foul things up with regard to the Suez Canal's availability to oil-carrying vessels. And London and Washington could not interfere too violently. The Russians are now poisoning and propagandizing the Arab peoples against the United States, and with some success.

By Ray Tucker

NASSER BOSS — Nasser, the real political and military boss of the revolution government, now has fresh reason for displeasure with Anglo-American diplomats as a result of their insistence that Spain cancel its contract to sell $3½ million worth of small arms to Egypt. He turned to Madrid only after the Eisenhower Administration would not provide weapons lest they be used against the British. He may now look to Moscow.

The great nations' need for oil starts and gears the machines of war. Therefore, the prospect of a new field here is extremely significant. The royalties would solve the new regime's difficulties in financing educational, agricultural and industrial development. It would give him a bargaining weapon in current and prospective disputes, a power he does not possess now. It might put the new Egypt on the international map in a much more important way.

St. Paul Church Members Hold Family Night Dinner

Program Features Film On Missions

One hundred members and guests gathered in the parish hall for an annual family night dinner meeting of the St. Paul church congregation.

Tables for a covered-dish dinner were decorated with arrangements of garden flowers and numerous lighted tapers provided illumination for the scene.

Mrs. Watson Peters, Mrs. Ray Badger, Mrs. C. L. Costlow and Mrs. H. C. Hines were members of a kitchen committee who made arrangements for the dinner.

Program was held in the auditorium following the dinner. Mrs. Harold Fisher, president of the Ladies Aid Society of the church, welcomed the guests.

A women's chorus consisting of Miss Rebecca Baum, Miss Dorothy Cade, Miss Mary Ann Noecker, Mrs. Emerson Connell and Mrs. Harold Fisher presented "Song of Welcome" and "Sundown". They were accompanied by Mrs. Archer Stewart at the piano.

The Rev. Charles A. Weishaup, assistant to the executive secretary of the Foreign Board of Missions in the American Lutheran church, showed a mission film.

The film was entitled "Ajo", which means, "Go Forward." It depicted mission work in New Guinea as it is progressing since the war. The theme of the film offered a challenge to viewers to "Go, preach, teach, pray and give." A question and answer period followed the film presentation. The women's chorus sang "Now the Day is Over" as the closing number of the program.

Program committee included Mrs. Ralph Fisher, Mrs. Emmerson Connell and the Rev. H. A. Tegmeier.

Logan Elm 4-H Sunny Sewers Conduct Session

Logan Elm Sunny Sewers 4-H club met in the newly-decorated Home Economics department of Pickaway Township School for a regular session.

Eighteen members answered the roll call. The president, Sidney Graves, conducted discussions concerning a club picnic and the grading of projects, which was announced for 7 p. m. Wednesday. The county home demonstration supervisor, Mrs. Leora Sayre, will take charge.

A talk was given on the care of the hands by Kathy Schmidt. Refreshments were served by Janet Bower, Carolyn Dean, and Patty Watson.

Household Hints

When you use canned apple slices you'll find all the slices are the same size because after the fruit is peeled and cored, it is mechanically sliced. Heat the canned slices with a little butter or margarine on top of the range and serve with sausage, roast pork or ham. The slices are also fine, of course, to use pudding or pie.

Beat a cold jellied soup lightly with a fork before serving, then spoon into serving cups or other soup dishes. Garnish with slices of cucumber sprinkled with parsley or chives.

Here's a good spread to have in the refrigerator for use at snack-time. Father especially will enjoy it. Cream a half cup of butter or margarine with a half cup of crumbled blue cheese; mix in Worcestershire sauce and celery salt to taste. Use as a spread for crackers, Melba toast or for stuffing celery.

Next time you are broiling bacon to serve with breakfast pancakes, broil some bananas at the same time. Just cut the bananas into halves lengthwise, butter or margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt. Broil the bananas on one side first, then when you turn them add the bacon slices. The pancakes,

Mrs. Gordon Is Winner In Golf Play At Columbus

Mrs. Ben Gordon of Northridge Road won low gross in flight three when women golfers of Pickaway Country Club were guests of Brookside Country Club of Columbus for an invitational tournament.

Those attending from Circleville included Mrs. Gordon, Mrs. Karl Mason, Mrs. George Van Camp, Mrs. Bernie Treacher and Mrs. Larry Athey.

A two-ball mixed foursome is planned at 4 p. m. Sunday in the Pickaway Club.

Qualifying round for a flight tournament is to have been played by Aug. 14.

Regular Ladies Day play is scheduled for Thursday at the club.

Pickaway Youth Group Schedules Ho Bo Convention

Pickaway County Youth Group is planning a Ho Bo convention to be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in the home of Miss Charlotte Hoffman of Circleville Route 2.

Those attending the event are asked to come dressed as Ho Bos. A king and queen are to be crowned sometime during the evening's festivities.

A dime will cover the cost of a Ho Bo banquet which will be served at the close of the session. All youths of the county are invited to attend the event.

Tele-Club Group Enjoys Thursday Dinner Meeting

Members of the Tele-Club enjoyed a dinner party held at 7 p. m. Thursday in Wardell Party Home.

Those attending the event were: Mrs. Bess Simison, Mrs. Emmett Crites, Mrs. Frank Webbe, Mrs. John Neff, Mrs. Grover Davis, Mrs. Cecelia Reynolds, Mrs. Edna Moon, Mrs. Gerald Crites, Miss Maggie Mavis, Miss Mary Howard, Mrs. Margaret Shadley and Mrs. Walter Parker of Whisler.

Pineapple Ice Cream Buffet Style

PINEAPPLE ice cream topped with fresh or canned pineapple and chocolate sauce ends a meal with fruit-flavored refreshment. For eye-catching display at buffets, scoop the ice cream into a chilled bowl and serve a la mode with cake.

Pre-packaged in pint and half-gallon cartons, pineapple ice cream is widely distributed during September and October. This sunny-of tint ice cream can be purchased while one is selecting the cake to go with it as many food stores now carry chocolate and white cake layers and angel food. With a serving of pre-packaged pineapple ice cream, the cake needs no frosting. A smaller scale of the buffet arrangement could be made for four at the bridge table, letting each player help himself to a portion of ice cream and cake.

Open carton of pre-packaged ice cream; spoon or scoop into chilled bowl; place in center of tray. Spoon chocolate sauce over ice cream; top with small amount pineapple sauce. Pass remaining pineapple sauce. Yield: 16 servings.

Pineapple Sauce
2 cups finely cut fresh pineapple
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup water
4 sprigs fresh mint
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Combine sugar, water and mint. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Boil 1 minute; remove from heat. Add lemon juice; pour over shredded pineapple. Chill; remove mint. Yield: Approximately 2 1/2 cups.

Bloomfield 4-H Club Holds All-Day Meeting

Bloomfield Busy Bodies 4-H club held an all-day session in the South Bloomfield School.

Project books were finished and scrap books were made by the members. Margaret Ann Acord and Lorna Hatfield gave a demonstration on pinning a hem in a dress-up dress.

Fair booth plans were discussed and the group voted to hold a tour Aug. 13.

Woman's Society Of Mt. Pleasant Church Has Meet

Seventeen members and seven children were present for a meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Mt. Pleasant church.

Mrs. Jesse Peart presided at the meeting, which was held in the church social rooms. Mrs. Roy Rittinger led devotionals, opening the session with group singing of "Sweet Hour of Prayer" followed by Scriptures taken from Matthew.

During a business session, the group voted to donate to a District parsonage at Lancaster. Initial plans for a rummage sale to be held in late August were made at this session.

Final arrangements were made for a bake sale which is to be held Aug. 14 at Kochheiser's Hardware.

Program for the session included a reading, "Grandmother's Attic" presented by Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger. Contests were won by Mrs. J. F. Collett and Mrs. Roy Rittinger.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Charles Lauderdale and Mrs. Franklin Mace.

Easy Way to Break Bad Habit of Constipation

Many people become intensely worried and frightened if they do not have at least one bowel movement a day. They expect dire consequences and ascribe numerous unrelated symptoms to their constipation. They complain of such symptoms as: biliousness, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, flatulence, nausea, abdominal distention, headache, dizziness, moderate rise of temperature.

Medical books warn that irritating cathartics generally are to be condemned. Doctors prescribe a new tablet guaranteed to break the laxative habit. You can buy it without prescription under the name of INERGEL. Get relief from even the most stubborn constipation. INERGEL tablets are sold by

Essinger-Cross Wedding Is Read In Good Hope Church

Good Hope Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Ellen Essinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey F. Essinger of Arlington and Edward E. Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Cross of Circleville Route 2.

The Rev. Willard Drefke officiated at the double ring ceremony, which was held at 8:30 p. m. July 26 in the Good Hope church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown fashioned with a long sleeved fitted bodice of chantilly lace. The full skirt of nylon tulle extended into a short train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a matching lace and beaded coronet. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and a garland of stephanotis.

Mrs. Olive Alloway, Mrs. Margaret Imler and Mrs. Mary Welsh, all sisters of the groom, served as the bride's attendants. They wore ballerina length gowns and carried arrangements of asters. Flower girls were Janice Lee Imler and Cheryl Louise Essinger.

William Imler of Circleville served as best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were James Essinger of Arlington and Donald Alloway of Columbus.

Mrs. Drefke presented a program of nuptial music on the organ preceding the ceremony and Miss G.

Pelletier served as soloist. A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Essinger received her guests in a navy lace dress with red sweetheart rose corsage. Mrs. Cross, mother of the groom, wore a two-piece navy faille dress with a pink rose corsage. Immediately following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to historic spots in Ohio. The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and Bliss Business School. Mr. Cross attended Circleville High School. He served five years with the Navy and now is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Columbus. The couple is residing at 2381 Cleveland Ave., Columbus.

Cream a half cup of butter or margarine with a half cup of crumbled blue cheese; mix in Worcestershire sauce and celery salt to taste. Use as a spread for crackers, Melba toast or for stuffing celery.

Next time you are broiling bacon to serve with breakfast pancakes, broil some bananas at the same time. Just cut the bananas into halves lengthwise, butter or margarine and sprinkle lightly with salt. Broil the bananas on one side first, then when you turn them add the bacon slices. The pancakes,

Pineapple Ice Cream Buffet Style

PINEAPPLE ice cream topped with fresh or canned pineapple and eye-catching display at buffets, scoop the ice cream into a chilled bowl and serve a la mode with cake.

Pre-packaged in pint and half-gallon cartons, pineapple ice cream is widely distributed during September and October. This sunny-tinted ice cream can be purchased while one is selecting the cake to go with it as many food stores now carry chocolate and white cake layers and angel food. With a serving of pre-packaged pineapple ice cream, the cake needs no frosting.

A smaller scale of the buffet arrangement could be made for four at the bridge table, letting each player help himself to a portion of ice cream and cake.

Pineapple Ice Cream Buffet
110-inch Chiffon or Angel Food cake
1/2 cup chocolate sauce
1/2 cup pineapple ice cream
1/2 cup water
Combine sugar, water and mint. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until sugar is dissolved. Boil 1 minute; remove from heat. Add lemon juice; pour over shredded pineapple. Chill; remove mint. Yield: Approximately 2 1/2 cups.

Bloomfield 4-H Club Holds All-Day Meeting

Bloomfield Busy Bodies 4-H club held an all-day session in the South Bloomfield School.

Project books were finished and scrap books were made by the members. Margaret Ann Acord and Lorna Hatfield gave a demonstration on pinning a hem in a dress-up dress.

Fair booth plans were discussed and the group voted to hold a tour Aug. 13.

Gleaner's Class of Pontius Evangelical United Brethren church will meet at 8 p. m. Monday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thompson of Circleville Route 3.

Woman's Society Of Mt. Pleasant Church Has Meet

Seventeen members and seven children were present for a meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of Mt. Pleasant church.

Mrs. Jesse Peart presided at the meeting, which was held in the church social rooms. Mrs. Roy Rittinger led devotionals, opening the session with group singing of "Sweet Hour of Prayer" followed by Scriptures taken from Matthew. During a business session, the group voted to donate to a District parsonage at Lancaster. Initial plans for a rummage sale to be held in late August were made at this session.

Final arrangements were made for a bake sale which is to be held Aug. 14 at Kochheiser's Hardware.

Program for the session included a reading, "Grandmother's Attic" presented by Mrs. Wheeler Rittinger. Contests were won by Mrs. J. F. Collett and Mrs. Roy Rittinger.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting by Mrs. Charles Lauderdale and Mrs. Franklin Mace.

Easy Way to Break Bad Habit of Constipation

Many people become intensely worried and frightened if they do not have at least one bowel movement a day. They expect dire consequences and ascribe numerous unrelated symptoms to their constipation.

They complain of such symptoms as: biliousness, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, flatulence, nausea, abdominal distension, headache, dizziness, moderate rise of temperature.

Medical books warn that irritating cathartics generally are to be condemned. Doctors prescribe a new tablet guaranteed to break the laxative habit. You can buy it without prescription under the name of INERGEL. Get relief from even the most stubborn constipation. INERGEL tablets are sold by

Essinger-Cross Wedding Is Read In Good Hope Church

Good Hope Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Ellen Essinger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey F. Essinger of Arlington and Edward E. Cross, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Ward Cross of Circleville Route 2.

The Rev. Willard Drefke officiated at the double ring ceremony, which was held at 8:30 p. m. July 26 in the Good Hope church. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length gown fashioned with a long sleeved fitted bodice of chantilly lace. The full skirt of nylon tulle extended into a short train.

Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a matching lace and beaded coronet. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid and a garland of stephanotis.

Mrs. Olive Alloway, Mrs. Margaret Imler and Mrs. Mary Welsh, all sisters of the groom, served as the bride's attendants. They wore ballerina length gowns and carried arrangements of asters. Flower girls were Janice Lee Imler and Cheryl Louise Essinger.

William Imler of Circleville served as best man for his brother-in-law. Ushers were James Essinger of Arlington and Donald Alloway of Columbus.

Mrs. Drefke presented a program of nuptial music on the organ preceding the ceremony and Miss G.

Pelletier served as soloist. A reception in the church parlor followed the ceremony.

Mrs. Essinger received her guests in a navy lace dress with red sweetheart rose corsage. Mrs. Cross, mother of the groom, wore a two-piece navy faille dress with a pink rose corsage.

Immediately following the reception, the couple left for a wedding trip to historic spots in Ohio. The bride is a graduate of Arlington High School and Bliss Business School. Mr. Cross attended Circleville High School. He served five years with the Navy and now is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad at Columbus. The couple is residing at 2381 Cleveland Ave., Columbus.

Remember August 6, 1945? Fireball Doomed Hiroshima

By DON WHITEHEAD
WASHINGTON (AP)—On Aug. 6, 1945, at 9:15 a. m., an atomic fireball flashed over Hiroshima, Japan, and 123,150 people were killed, injured, maimed or burned.

One bomb . . . 78,150 dead or dying . . . 50,000 injured . . . a city virtually wiped out . . . and soon a nation forced to quick surrender by the appalling power of the atom.

But Hiroshima was only the popgun phase of the young Atomic Age. Nine years and 12 billion dollars later, the popgun of Hiroshima had become a weapon so dreadful that it could—and did—blow a mile-wide hole, 175 feet deep, in the coral floor of the Pacific Ocean. The crater was big enough to hold 140 buildings the size of the nation's Capitol.

This was done with a 1952-model hydrogen device which without doubt has undergone a good many refinements since then as a weapon of total destruction. The Hiroshima bomb had an explosive power equal to 20,000 tons of TNT. The hydrogen bomb TNT equivalent runs into the millions of tons.

On this ninth anniversary of Hiroshima, where does the United States stand in the world of the atom? Here is a brief run-down: The most fearful development perhaps is that the United States has lost the monopoly on the atomic bomb which existed in August 1945. At that time this country alone had the weapon which could have brought military mastery of the world—had this nation been a land bent on conquest. Now Russia has mastered the scientific and industrial techniques of manufacturing atomic weapons.

Today it's a race between Russia and the United States for atomic supremacy. American experts say the United States has the lead—but a lead that is being narrowed by the Russians. Great Britain, too, has an advanced program and has exploded an atomic bomb.

The bombs which dropped on Hiroshima and three days later on Nagasaki perhaps were the only two completed atomic bombs in the American stockpile at that time. Now there are "baby" bombs, atomic artillery shells, guided missile warheads and the hydrogen giants such as the one exploded in the Pacific during the 1952 tests. The stockpile may now run into the thousands.

Some military men believe these weapons have become so horrible in their destructive power that no nation will ever dare the gamble of atomic war. But the fear that it may happen still drives this country forward in the race for atomic supremacy. Something like 90 per cent of the billions poured into atomic development is for purposes of war and defense. But even though the emphasis is on weapons of war, huge strides have been made in the direction of using the atom's fantastic energy for peace.

A by-product of the weapons program is that hundreds of scientists and engineers in the industrial world—working with the government in the atomic energy program—have gained important knowledge and experience in the peaceful use of nuclear energy.

And there is as much of a race for supremacy in the peaceful use of the atom—although far less dramatic—as there is in the weapons field. No industrial nation competing in the world markets can afford to be far outstripped in the use of this potentially cheap source of power.

One pound of uranium in a cube just one inch square has potentially usable energy equal to 2,600,000 pounds of coal. How to harness this energy to engines is a problem that is under steady attack by the best scientific and engineering minds around the world.

More than a score of nations have set up atomic energy programs—the great majority devoted solely to exploring the peaceful uses of nuclear energy. Twelve European nations have established a cooperative nuclear research organization with headquarters at Geneva, Switzerland.

The use of nuclear energy to produce electric power no longer is a dream. It has been done—and the problem now is to figure a way to make this atomic fuel produce power as cheaply or cheaper than coal.

The United States has an atomic submarine which it is believed will be able to travel thousands of miles with no need of refueling. A land-based prototype of the atomic engine, according to a recent Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee report, has "already produced more than enough power to send an atomic submarine around the world, submerged, at full speed."

There are visions, too, that in the not-distant future ships and airplanes will be powered by nuclear energy and that atomic powerhouses will bring cheap electricity to industrial areas and to remote regions where fuel costs now are almost prohibitive.

The government expects to have an atomic power plant operating in two or three years—but no one can say yet how economical such a plant will be.

Industry and the medical world have found a multitude of uses for the tom. In fact, a sizable "atomic industry" has grown up to supply materials and equipment to those using radioactive material.

All these things have happened in the nine years since Hiroshima and it is only the beginning. Even with all their advances, scientists are aware that the nucleus of the atom still holds many secrets they have not plumbed.

The race will go to those who discover those secrets first—and then are able to change theory into the reality of a practical operation. At this point, the experts say, the United States still is out in front.

With afterburners, the jet engines in an all-weather interceptor have power equal to 150 average-sized automobiles.

Treasure Trove Gives Boys Gay Time For While

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Eight boys found a treasure trove in a vacant lot and had a gay time until police stepped in.

Like a youthful dream come true, the youngsters stumbled on several bags of silver and promptly began to toss money around, dashing to an amusement park and to the resort town of Asbury Park.

One suspicious mother yesterday said her boy seemed to have an unlimited supply of quarters.

Detectives talked to the boys, who led them to four bags of silver, containing $981.65, stored between a bees' nest and a wasps' nest "to keep thieves away."

Police said the find apparently was part of $3,900 which disappeared from a Trenton, N.J., vending machine firm along with one of the firm's employees.

Names and ages of the boys were not disclosed. Nor did police say how much they spent.

Sokolsky's These Days

I can say something of the difficulties involved in such a task because I was one of those called into Executive Session to testify as to what I know about this affair.

I was present at the luncheon at the Merchants Club in New York on November 17 as a guest, I assume, of Secretary of the Army Stevens who paid the bill; I had had a private talk with Secretary of the Army Stevens in his office on November 24; I had had some telephone conversations with Army Counsel John Adams, which were not monitored and concerning all but one, I have no recollection whatsoever.

That one, I remember clearly because it occurred just before all the passions broke loose, as I warned they would.

These occurrences made little impression on me at the time; seemed not too important; much of the conversation was gay banter. It would never have occurred to me to make a note of them and I did not. At the time, nobody seemed to be angry with anybody and as I listened to the testimony, I wondered if I was really present at any of it. It is not that the testimony was false; rather the tone was different on the witness stand than it was when men believed that they were friends.

After this experience, I shall often wonder whether what wives say about their husbands in divorce courts is not like what John Adams said about Roy Cohn, and vice versa, after they stopped being pals. Undoubtedly each said what the other said that he said, but in what tone? Perhaps it should have been put to music.

Iowa Town Plans Big Show For Hoover's 80th Birthday

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — A birthday celebration, the like of which Iowa has never before seen and probably can never duplicate, will be his native state's newest tribute to Herbert Hoover.

Thousands will gather Tuesday, August 10, in this community of 750 population, where the former President of the United States was born to a village blacksmith and his Quaker schoolteacher wife, 80 years ago.

Iowa is going all out to honor Hoover that day.

Mother Indicted In Wilmington

WILMINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Thelma Watson, accused of killing two of her four daughters as they slept a week ago, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury for second-degree murder.

Her trial is scheduled to be held in the April 1955 term of court.

Mrs. Watson, who also shot herself, still is under treatment in Clinton County Memorial Hospital. The slain children were Barbara Alene, 13, and Rita Mae, 9, two other daughters, Catherine, 11, and Jenny Lea, six months were not harmed. The husband and father, Ray Watson, who was in the house at the time of the shooting, has said he knew of no reason for his wife's action.

9 Girls Compete For Beauty Title

WOOSTER (AP) — Nine of this state's prettiest girls compete tonight for the title of "Miss Ohio of 1955" and the opportunity to enter the annual "Miss America" contest in Atlantic City. They are: Joan Mae Schoenfeld, 19, Cleveland; Julia Consentino, 22, Cincinnati; Phyllis Pawlicki, 21, Toledo; Kay Jo Garner, 20, Dayton; Lillian Mae Fisher, 20, Lima; Marjorie Ann Reid, 22, Conneaut; Barbara M. Wilmington Rain Tops Ohio Total

WILMINGTON (AP) — Unlike much of the state, Wilmington is making no complaints whatsoever about a July drought.

Mrs. Ethel H. Hayes, weather observer here, disclosed today that Wilmington had 8.42 inches of rain in July, Ohio's heaviest rainfall. Oddly, Mrs. Hayes said, 2 days of the month were clear, five were partly cloudy and only three were cloudy. Of the total rainfall in the month, 5.35 inches fell during a heavy storm on July 20.

Associated Press Women's Editor

Before American women start doing anything drastic to hide their bosoms, I'd like to advise them not to take Christian Dior's no-bust dictum too seriously.

From where I sit one fact emerges from the current flat-chested furore, a fact that has become more apparent each year since 1947, when this small, bookish Frenchman became an overnight celebrity as father of the "New Look":

Christian Dior is a showman in the P. T. Barnum tradition. The fashion business is one of cut-throat competition, with the laurels going to the designer who gets there fustiest with the mostest sensations.

For the last seven years, Dior has been there fustiest, creating nine-day wonders with drastic changes in the established silhouette, making women wonder whether to throw out all their old clothes, causing international controversy and getting front page headlines.

His first Paris showing, at which the late and unlamented "New Look" was born, was the only one which succeeded in changing the basic dress of the average woman. This was a natural result of the freeing of wartime restrictions, bringing back fuller, longer skirts after years when women had no choice except to wear short, tight ones.

Since then Dior has exploded a fashion bombshell at his Paris showing almost every summer and has become the most famous, successful and controversial figure in the international world of fashion.

Last year his edict of knee-length skirts brought on a rash of hysterical pro-and-con statements, sent buyers into a dither and elicited varying reactions from the general public, while, of course, making news on both sides of the Atlantic.

Grapevine gossip in the garment industry was that on the night before the opening, Dior surveyed his collection, decided that it had nothing that would produce sensational news, and ordered all the skirts shortened about six inches.

After the short-skirt furore had reaped its full complement of headlines, the astute designer announced that the whole knee-length skirt controversy had been greatly exaggerated, and left on his vacation.

As now is apparent, the short-skirt tempest had no appreciable effect on the American hemline.

The previous year, Dior mannequins were said to be wearing no girdles when they modeled the newest designs of the maestro. This almost caused a panic in the corset industry, until Dior remarked mildly that he had said no such thing, and that he had merely lightened the boning in some of his evening gowns. Again he left on a holiday.

This year news that Dior had eliminated the bosom from the fall silhouette brought on a rash of editorial comment and crowded Indochina, taxes and McCarthy for Page One space.

Hollywood sweater girls sneered, bra manufacturers shouted denunciations, store buyers lined up and took sides and American husbands laid down the law.

Then, a few days later, Dior announced that he hadn't eliminated the bosom; he had merely raised it. In fact, he had designed and patented a bra lifting the bosom from the current average 10½ inches from the shoulder, to eight inches. A New York fashion editor covering the Paris openings did a little detective work among the Dior mannequins and reported that the new bras are "straight little cages that reach from waistline to above bosom height . . . as un-shaped as a little girl's panty waist and without any suggestion of cups."

It seems apparent that raising the bustline to this extent also necessarily raises the neckline.

All this hardly seems a silhouette that will appeal to American women—and certainly it draws no applause from American men. My bet is that bosoms are here to stay.

Dior, as usual, has left on his vacation.

Narcissus was the mythological character who fell in love with himself.

Iowa Town Plans Big Show For Hoover's 80th Birthday

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — A birthday celebration, the like of which Iowa has never before seen and probably can never duplicate, will be his native state's newest tribute to Herbert Hoover.

Thousands will gather Tuesday, August 10, in this community of 750 population, where the former President of the United States was born to a village blacksmith and his Quaker schoolteacher wife, 80 years ago.

Iowa is going all out to honor Hoover that day.

He comes to West Branch by special invitation, extended in formal resolution last year, by the Iowa legislature. Gov. William S. Beardsley has proclaimed Aug. 10 "Herbert Hoover" day; and urged attention to the "industry, integrity and sense of public obligation which made this native Iowan one of the world's great men."

So, Tuesday will be West Branch's biggest day in years.

There will be many reminders of those great times when Hoover held the highest office in the land. Associates of Hoover administration days and a number of other specially invited guests will reflect the minic of the guest of honor.

President Eisenhower will be represented by Vice President Nixon. Among those who have made hotel reservations in nearby Iowa City and Cedar Rapids are governors, former governors, generals, college heads, close friends and relatives.

The latter will include both sons, Herbert Hoover Jr., and Allan Hoover, and their families.

Already Congress has extended its felicitations to Hoover on his 80th birthday's imminence. That was by concurrent resolution last month.

Members of the second Hoover Commission, now working on recommendations for reorganizing the executive branch of the federal government, are offering him a honorary scroll which notes:

"The new Hoover Commission and the Citizens Committee for the Hoover Report present this distinguished service citation to the Honorable Herbert Hoover on the occasion of his 80th birthday, with warmest congratulations and in recognition of his unflinching devotion and out-standing contributions in behalf of federal reorganization to eradicate waste and insure better government for all Americans."

The scroll, bearing the names of 125 commission members, will be presented by John Stuart, Chicago, board chairman of Quaker Oats Co.

The State University of Iowa throws aside tradition Tuesday to join those honoring Hoover. Ordinarily it confers honorary degrees only at the inauguration of a new SUI president and then on the campus.

But the university president, Virgil M. Hancher, will give Hoover an honorary doctor of laws degree, and here at the birthday program.

Hoover will dedicate a new elementary school named in his honor. He will visit his birthplace cottage, now preserved as a historic shrine; attend a picnic with friends in the community park, and receive the Hoover Commission scroll.

The afternoon's formal program will include tributes in addresses. Hoover's own speech will be televised by CBS, NBC and independent Iowa TV stations and carried by the four major radio networks.

Hoover then goes on to Iowa City for dedication of another Hoover school and to Cedar Rapids and Mason City for the dedication of two more.

Trooper Thought He'd Heard 'Em All

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The State Safety Patrol vouches for this tale: An oncoming car cut in front of a trooper's car for a left turn without signaling. The trooper followed the other car, curbed it and asked the driver, "Didn't you see me when you made that turn?"

The elderly driver replied, "No. I don't see very well. I do the driving, but Ma here tells me when to turn."

Mother Indicted In Wilmington

WILMINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Thelma Watson, accused of killing two of her four daughters as they slept a week ago, was indicted yesterday by the grand jury for second-degree murder.

Her trial is scheduled to be held in the April 1955 term of court.

Mrs. Watson, who also shot herself, still is under treatment in Clinton County Memorial Hospital.

The slain children were Barbara Alene, 13, and Rita Mae, 9. Two other daughters, Catherine, 11, and Jenny Lea, six months were not harmed. The husband and father, Ray Watson, who was in the house at the time of the shooting, has said he knew of no reason for his wife's action.

9 Girls Compete For Beauty Title

WOOSTER (AP) — Nine of this state's prettiest girls compete tonight for the title of "Miss Ohio of 1955" and the opportunity to enter the annual "Miss America" contest in Atlantic City. They are:

Joan Mae Schoenfeld, 19, Cleveland; Julia Consentino, 22, Cincinnati; Phyllis Pawlicki, 21, Toledo; Kay Jo Garner, 20, Dayton; Lillian Mae Fisher, 20, Lima; Marjorie Ann Reid, 22, Conneaut; Barbara M. Quinlan, 20, Alliance; Doris Iddings, 18, St. Clairsville, and Mary Schuster 18, Wooster.

Whoever is chosen Miss Ohio gets a $500 scholarship award.

Wilmington Rain Tops Ohio Total

WILMINGTON (AP) — Unlike much of the state, Wilmington is making no complaints whatsoever about a July drought.

Mrs. Ethel H. Hayes, weather observer here, disclosed today that Wilmington had 8.42 inches of rain in July, Ohio's heaviest rainfall.

Oddly, Mrs. Hayes said, 2 days of the month were clear, five were partly cloudy and only three were cloudy. Of the total rainfall in the month, 5.35 inches fell during a heavy storm on July 20.

Polk Says Airport Fund Is Assured

PORTSMOUTH (AP)—Rep. James G. Polk (D-Ohio) has informed
Scioto County officials that $400,- 000 in federal funds had been earmarked for an airport here.

Rep. Polk, in a telegram to County
Engineer O. Carson Barklow, said: "I have been definitely assured $400,000 has been earmarked for the Scioto County airport. Of course, it will be necessary for the county to meet all requirements concerning specifications before the money will be made available."

The $400,000, Barklow said, was part of the $22 million approved for airport aid in a bill now before a conference committee of congress.
The county approved a $400,000 airport bond issue in 1952 with which to match the federal funds.

Christian Dior's Latest Fad Not To Be Taken Seriously

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Before American women start doing anything drastic to hide their bosoms, I'd like to advise them not to take Christian Dior's no-bust dictum too seriously.

From where I sit one fact emerges from the current flat-chested furore, a fact that has become more apparent each year since 1947, when this small, bookish Frenchman became an overnight celebrity as father of the "New Look".

Christian Dior is a showman in the P. T. Barnum tradition.

The fashion business is one of cut-throat competition, with the laurels going to the designer who gets there fustiest with the mostest sensations.

For the last seven years, Dior has been there fustiest, creating nine-day wonders with drastic changes in the established silhouette, making women wonder whether to throw out all their old clothes, causing international controversy and getting front page headlines.

His first Paris showing, at which the late and unlamented "New Look" was born, was the only one which succeeded in changing the basic dress of the average woman. This was a natural result of the freeing of wartime restrictions, bringing back fuller, longer skirts after years when women had no choice except to wear short,
tight ones.

Since then Dior has exploded a fashion bombshell at his Paris showing almost every summer and has become the most famous, successful and controversial figure in the international world of fashion.

Last year his edict of knee-length skirts brought on a rash of hysteri-

Angler Gets Assist From Big Fish

BRIXHAM, England (P)—G. G. Crisp went empty-handed for hours while two companions on a fishing expedition hauled in catches right and left.

As the party upped anchor to row home an 11-pound fish jumped at a fly, cleared the edge of the boat and fell at Crisp's feet.

It was the day's biggest fish.

ACCORDING to reports, Arnold Johnson, the Chicago business executive who now owns Yankee Stadium and the Kansas City stadium, has put in a bid to purchase the franchise of the Philadelphia Athletics and move the club to Kansas City. According to the report, a bid of $4,000,000 was made for the club. (International)

24 Pioneers Named To Ring Hall Of Fame

NEW YORK (AP)—When the long-planned boxing museum is built, the Hall of Fame will have 24 plaques on the wall.

The voting, announced yesterday, was broken down into the "pioneer" era, taking in boxers who fought up to 1919 and a modern era, those who fought after 1919 and have been out of action two years.

The only modern era fighters who were able to muster the required 75 per cent of the votes of the committee of writers for the world's major news services were Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis and Henry Armstrong.

The Oldtimers Committee selected six former champions—heavyweights James J. Corbett, James J. Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons and Jack Johnson; lightweight Joe Gans and middleweight Stanley Ketchell.

The pioneer group included John L. Sullivan, Jack McAuliffe, John C. Heenan, John Morrissey, Tom Hyer and Nonpareil Jack Dempsey (no relation to the Manassa Mauler), all Americans, along with England's James Figg, Jack Broughton, Daniel Mendoza, Tom Cribb, Gentleman John Jackson, Tom Sayers, Arthur Chambers, and Jem Mace, plus Australia's Yoing Griffo.

JC Tennis Test Is Held Under Lights

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The first National Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament today claimed the distinction of being the first national net test ever held under lights.

Play went on under the arcs last night after rain for the second straight day twice interrupted the contests. Referee Harry Fogleman ordered the lamps turned on after showers halted play in the morning and in the afternoon.

Four seeded players moved into the semifinal round of the boys division before a crowd of more than 1,000 persons.

First-seeded Earl Buchholtz of St. Louis moved into today's semifinals by means of twin victories

Ohio Valley Net Tourney Continues

CINCINNATI (AP)—Three matches went into extra sets as the Ohio Valley Tennis Tournament was resumed yesterday.

George Fryman of Dayton had to come from behind to whip Bob Massman of Cincinnati, 2-6, 7-5, 6-4, and Joe Phillips of Cincinnati had to do the same thing to down Gordon Naugle of Cincinnati, 6-8, 6-4, 6-2.

Jim Johnston, Hamilton city champion, was the winner in the other extra set match as he whipped Ben Hensley of Cincinnati, 6-3, 7-9, 6-3.

Redlegs Scheduled For Tough Series

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—On a basis of past performances, there appeared to be only slight hope today that the Cincinnati Redlegs would be able to salvage much in the next three days from what has been their most disastrous tour of the East this season.

The Redlegs have won only two of nine games in Philadelphia, New York and Pittsburgh. They arrived here today for a series with Brooklyn, and the Dodgers, along with the New York Giants, have been the toughest customers for the Reds all season.

Many Rules Seen Violated At Scene Of Recent Crash

Moving Injured Persons, Blocking Highway
Most Noticeable Misdeeds By Spectators

Some of the very simplest rules of common sense and first aid were ignored 100 per cent last week during an automobile accident.

Last Saturday afternoon two cars crashed on Route 23 a couple of miles north of Circleville. Both automobiles were thrown into a ditch on the side of the road.

A Herald reporter, who happened by chance to be on the scene seconds after the accident, noted the following amazing events occur in rapid order:

1. Although several people were on the crash scene in moments, no one bothered to call either the sheriff or State Highway Patrol.

ALTHOUGH several motorists passed by and there were at least two houses within shouting distance, no one called either law enforcement agency until an unidentified motorist did the chores.

2. Several people were thrown out of both cars. However, well meaning spectators obligingly began picking these people up. One injured woman was led across the highway to a nearby house.

"The first rule of safety in the case of an accident is never to move an injured person," notes Sheriff Charles Radcliff. "It makes no difference what the person says. There is no way of telling how badly a person is hurt until a doctor's examination."

3. Curiosity seekers lined the busy highway on both sides at the crash site. At that point Route 23 is only a two-lane road and far from being level.

"One of our greatest traffic problems is to try to keep the accident scene clear so that emergency vehicles and wreckers have room to operate," explained State Patrolman Bob Greene.

"We had a hard time keeping the highway clear with the way some of the people were parked along the berm," Greene added.

4. Although a blanket was called for to cover up the injured persons before the sheriff and State Patrol cars got to the scene, no one responded. As a matter of fact, the request got several curious glances.

"The best way to prevent shock is to immediately cover up an injured person," Sheriff Radcliff and Patrolman Greene agreed. "We always carry blankets in our cars and use them without hesitation."

THEREFORE, the following suggestions are made to be of some help in the future:

Always call some law enforcement agency immediately—then go to the accident scene!

Never move an injured person—under any circumstances! Leave that up to competent people.

If you must stop and have a curious look, pull your car far enough away from the accident scene to allow emergency vehicles plenty of room!

Always cover up an injured person—even on a hot day! Shock sets in quickly and is sometimes the cause of more serious complications later on!

Great Plains Farmers Find Going Tough During Drought

DALLAS (AP)—Farmers and ranchers are glum and dispirited in the vast drought country where corn and cotton droops and cattle graze on brown pastures.

"Unless we assist in every possible way," says Agriculture Commissioner John White of Texas, "thousands of our rural people will have to abandon the land."

White speaks for only one state. But drought still rules at the Great Plains, in spite of recent rains and federal aid to six states.

Good rains in some sun-burned sections have been more helpful, but not enough to save most crops.

Here is what men who live on the seared land throughout the disaster areas say:

Only a lot more rain, and then still more, can finally beat the drought and save them. When that happy day will arrive is an impossible guess. Meanwhile, they need federal help to hang on. And, they grumble, they aren't getting enough.

"I DON'T THINK they're expecting a 'dole,'" White said. "For the sake of our economic future, we have to help the little farmer and rancher stay on the farm. We can't help them if they are forced to drift into the cities to seek employment."

The number of states eligible for federal aid reached six this week when Oklahoma and Missouri were added to Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Texas.

Si more states—Alabama, Arkansas, Kansas, Kentucky, Georgia and Tennessee—have asked to be included.

The government's emergency program is aimed at helping livestock men hang onto their foundation herds. The government has agreed to pay half the cost of shipping hay into the disaster areas.

The Agriculture Department also will pay a subsidy of 60 cents per hundred pounds of corn, oats, barley and grain sorghums. The subsidy will go to the dealers, and ranchers can then buy these grains at cut-rate prices.

But this program will leave feed prices somewhat higher than they were last summer under a more liberal federal emergency program. For example, you could buy a bushel of corn last year for $1. Now it will cost about $1.50.
